GENERAL INTRODUCTION

PROVENANCE

The papers were received in December 1999 from Dr Jennifer Newton (daughter) via the University of Sheffield.

OUTLINE OF THE CAREER OF ARTHUR ROY CLAPHAM

Arthur Roy Clapham was born in Norwich in 1904. He was educated at the City of Norwich School and in 1922 entered Downing College Cambridge as a Foundation Scholar. He gained a first class degree in the Natural Sciences Tripos, taking Botany in Part II. He was awarded the Frank Smart Prize for Botany and this studentship enabled him in 1925 to begin post-graduate research on plant physiology under F.F. Blackman. He was awarded his Ph.D. in 1929.

In 1928 Clapham joined the staff of Rothamsted Agricultural Experimental Station, Harpenden as a Crop Physiologist. In 1930 he took up a post as Departmental and then University Demonstrator in Botany at the University of Oxford. In 1944 he was appointed Professor of Botany at the University of Sheffield, a post he held until retirement in 1969. He was then made Professor emeritus. Clapham served as Pro-Vice-Chancellor of the University of Sheffield 1954-1958 and Acting Vice-Chancellor in 1965. As Head of the Botany Department Clapham oversaw an expansion of its activities and a growing reputation as a centre for plant ecology research. In 1965 a second chair was established, which was filled by Clapham's ex-student and friend J.L. Harley.

Clapham had widespread national and international commitments in botany and the related field of nature conservation. He became a member of the Nature Conservancy in 1956 and served for many years. He was Chairman of its Scientific Policy Committee for seven years, 1963-1970, and Committee for England from 1961. He also headed the Conservancy's Teesdale Research Panel and went on to serve as Chairman of the Teesdale Research Trust's Scientific Committee that effectively replaced the Panel. Clapham was on the Council of the British Ecological Society, serving as Secretary 1948-1950 and President 1954-1956, and on the Council of the Linnean Society 1960-1963 (President 1967-1970). He was an influential member of many local groups, including the Derbyshire Naturalists' Trust, which he helped to found in 1962 (Chairman until 1969). Internationally Clapham was closely involved in the International Union of Biological Sciences' International Biological Programme (IBP), serving as chairman of the British National Committee for the IBP and as a member of its Productivity of Terrestrial Communities Subcommittee. He maintained an active interest in British research conducted for the IBP and participated in its African Savannah project and in the IBP's work on various systems of classifying vegetation. He made many overseas visits, including advising on the development of the University of the South Pacific in Fiji 1970-1971.

Clapham's contributions to botany were ecological rather than in the area of taxonomy. His research began from statistical studies of variance on small-plot field experiments at Rothamsted. Papers from his time at Oxford utilised statistical methods in studying the structure of vegetation distribution and its changes over time and the interacting influences at work. Clapham may have been the first to use the term 'ecosystem', suggesting it to A.G Tansley in the early 1930s. Following his move to Sheffield Clapham made major contributions to research through his work, with T.G. Tutin and E.F. Warburg, on the Flora of the British Isles, (1st ed., Cambridge 1952). This became the standard British Flora for over forty years, being revised for new editions in 1963 and 1987. The smaller Excursion Flora of the British Isles, (1st ed., Cambridge 1959) also reached three editions. Clapham was active following retirement, writing no fewer than four Biographical Memoirs of Fellows of the Royal Society. He also wrote The Oxford Book of Trees (Oxford, 1975), illustrated by B.E. Nicholson and edited Upper Teesdale, the area and its natural history (London 1978).

For his distinguished contributions to plant ecology Clapham was elected to the Fellowship of the Royal Society in 1959. He received the CBE in 1969 and among other honours was awarded the Linnean Gold Medal in 1972. Clapham died in December 1990.

A fuller account of Clapham's life and works can be found in the Royal Society Memoir of Clapham by A. J. Willis (Biographical Memoirs of Fellows of the Royal Society vol 39, 1994) upon which this summary has drawn.

DESCRIPTION OF THE COLLECTION

The material is presented in the order given in the List of Contents. It covers the period 1925-1994.

Section A, Biographical, is not substantial. There are letters of congratulation on his election to the Fellowship of the Royal Society in 1959 and the award of the CBE in 1969. There is also some family correspondence, chiefly from Clapham to his wife for the periods when Clapham was overseas.

Section B, University of Sheffield, chiefly comprises notes and teaching material for Clapham's lectures and field trips at the University of Sheffield. Subjects range from biogeography to statistics. The papers were found in Clapham's folders and envelopes in considerable disorder and represent lectures delivered over a number of decades and for a number of courses. Very few of the papers are dated.

Section C, Research, is notes and notebooks dating from post-graduate research at Cambridge in the mid-1920s to post-retirement work in the early 1970s. It includes Clapham's Ph.D. thesis, papers relating to forestry research in the 1940s, survey work in Glen Affric, Invernesshire in 1947 and botanical notes on visits abroad and from field trips. A number of notebooks used by Clapham during visits in the UK and abroad were kept as daily diaries as well as for a botanical record of the visit. Some research material may also be found with the University of Sheffield lecture notes in section B, with which some of it was kept, and in the Publications and lectures section F, including work on German forests undertaken during the Second World War.

Section D, Nature Conservancy, covers the period 1957 to 1974. There is some general policy material, 1959-1971, including papers relating to the relationship between the Nature Conservancy and the Natural Environment Research Council. The bulk of the material, however, is Scientific Policy Committee papers including papers for particular meetings and papers on particular topics kept together by Clapham. The best represented of these topics is woodland research. There is also significant material relating to Upper Teesdale in Durham. Following the flooding of a section of the valley for a reservoir the Teesdale Research Trust was established to oversee research into the flora and fauna of the remaining area. Clapham was the chairman of the Trust's Scientific Committee.

Section E, International Biological Programme (IBP), includes miscellaneous general papers relating to various aspects of the IBP, papers for meetings of the British National Committee for the IBP, material relating to various UK-supported projects and, the largest single component of the section, papers relating to systems of classifying vegetation types. The material covers the period 1964-1975.

Section F, Publications and lectures, is the largest in the collection though by no means representative of Clapham's output in these areas. Publications material covers the period 1944-1982 and includes documentation of Clapham's major books Flora of the British Isles (with T.G. Tutin and E.F. Warburg), The Oxford Book of Trees (with B.E. Nicholson), and Upper Teesdale, the area and its natural history. There are also papers and correspondence assembled by Clapham in the course of writing his Royal Society Biographical Memoirs of G.R.S. Snow, W.H. Pearsall, W.O. James and E.J. Salisbury. The material relating to Salisbury includes a short sequence of Salisbury's own correspondence spanning his career. Public and invitation lectures are not well documented. The most significant material is for lectures on 'The shapes of trees' and 'Common plants'.

Section G, Societies and organisations, is slight. The largest component is papers of the Botanical Society of the British Isles' Distribution-Maps Committee and there is also some material relating to the Aldabra Research Committee of the Royal Society.

Section H, Visits and conferences, documents a few of the visits made and conferences attended between 1933 and 1984. The section does not fully represent the extent of Clapham's travel as is indicated, for example, by his notebooks in section C and passports in section A. The most significant groups of material relate to Clapham's visit to Kenya in connection with the International Union for the Conservation of Nature and Natural Resources General Assembly in Kenya in 1963 and visits to Australia and Pacific islands in 1969 and Fiji in 1970-1971.

Section J, Correspondence, presents a short alphabetical sequence of incoming correspondence arranged alphabetically. There are few extended sequences but a number of Clapham's colleagues are represented including H. Godwin and J.L. Harley.

There is also an index of correspondents.

SECTION B

UNIVERSITY OF SHEFFIELD

B.1-B.73

Clapham was appointed to the Chair of Botany at the University of Sheffield in 1944. He remained at Sheffield for the rest of his career. He served as Pro-Vice-Chancellor 1954-1958 and was Acting Vice-Chancellor for 1965. On his retirement in 1969 he was appointed Professor emeritus.

The material is essentially notes and teaching material for Clapham's lectures and field trips at the University of Sheffield. Subjects range from biogeography to statistics. The papers were found in Clapham's folders and envelopes in a state of considerable disorder. They include manuscript and typescript lecture notes from a number of decades and for a number of courses as well as duplicated typescript course notes, research material and notes on the literature. Very few of the papers are dated.

The papers have been presented in a single sequence. Clapham's inscriptions have been used as the basis for the organisation of the material and are preserved in the catalogue entries.

B.1 'Lecture notes biogeography'. Contents of Clapham's folder so inscribed. Includes typescript notes for Biogeography II and III.

B.2-B.14 Contents of Clapham's untitled folder divided into thirteen for ease of reference: manuscript, typescript and duplicated typescript notes on various aspects of biogeography.

B.2 Notes for Biogeography lecture 4.

B.3 Notes on historical ecology.

B.4 Notes on glaciation and the inter-glacial period.

B.5 Notes on pollen analysis.

B.6 Notes on Miocene and Eocene flora.

B.7 Notes on Pleistocene vegetation etc.

University of Sheffield

- B.8 Notes on peat bogs.
- B.9 Notes on effect of climate change on vegetation.
- B.10 Notes on North American vegetation.
- B.11-B.14 Miscellaneous notes.
4 folders.
- B.15-B.19 'Ecology lectures and excursions -1969'. Contents of Clapham's folder so inscribed divided into five for ease of reference: manuscript, typescript and duplicated typescript notes.
- B.15 Plan of lectures; notes for lectures 1, 2 and 4 on the 'Vegetation of the Sheffield District'.
- B.16 Notes for excursions for Intermediate Ecology excursions, 1965 and 1st Year biology students, 1969; notes for lectures on intermediate ecology and non-integrated biology.
- B.17 Duplicated typescript teaching material.
- B.18 Duplicated typescript abstracts of papers given at British Ecological Society symposium, 1964.
- B.19 Miscellaneous manuscript and typescript notes.
- B.20-B.24 'Lecture Notes Experimental Ecology'. Contents of Clapham's folder so inscribed divided into five for ease of reference.
- B.20 Manuscript and typescript notes for introductory lecture on Experimental Biology, lectures 2-4 on Rates of Ecological Change and lecture 2 on Rates of primary and secondary successions.

University of Sheffield

- B.21 Notes for lectures in integrated course for 1st year biology students.
- B.22-B.24 Miscellaneous manuscript and typescript notes.
3 folders.
- B.25-B.32 'Lecture notes. Field ecology and excursions around Sheffield'. Contents of Clapham's folder so inscribed divided into eight for ease of reference. Individual pages dated between 1952 and 1967.
- B.25 Manuscript and typescript notes for intermediate lectures 1 on Totley Wood, near Sheffield, some dated 1952 and 1964; duplicated typescript lists of field excursions for intermediate and 1st year students.
- B.26 'Profile data on Totley Wood, Totley Moor'. Miscellaneous manuscript and duplicated typescript material so labelled.
- B.27 Manuscript and typescript notes on vegetation of the Sheffield district.
- B.28 Manuscript notes for intermediate lecture 3 on soils; manuscript notes on podsoils and brown earth.
- B.29 Typescript outline of intermediate lecture 5; typescript 'Lecture to Integrated Course for First-Year Biologists' on relation of higher plants to surrounding vegetation; duplicated typescript notes.
- B.30 Typescript notes for intermediate lecture 8 on grasslands and heather moors; duplicated typescript notes for intermediate ecology excursions 3 and 4 to Kinderscout 1965 and Cressbrookdale 1964; manuscript notes on Kinderscout; typescript notes on grassland.
- B.31, B.32 Miscellaneous notes.
2 folders.

University of Sheffield

- B.33-B.38 'Gramineae'. Contents of Clapham's folder so inscribed divided into six for ease of reference.
- B.33 Typescript list of lectures on angiosperm taxonomy; typescript draft of ?introductory lecture; typescript notes for lectures 3 and 5; manuscript and typescript notes on angiosperms
- B.34 Typescript and manuscript draft of lecture to integrated course for 1st year biology students; typescript outline of final lecture on gymnosperms for Honours course.
- B.35-B.38 Manuscript and typescript notes.
Includes material on Linnaeus and history of taxonomy;
4 folders.
- B.39-B.43 'Historical Ecology notes'. Contents of Clapham's folder so inscribed divided into five for ease of reference.
- B.39 Typescript notes for Honours Course on Historical Ecology, 1959; typescript note for lecture 3 and 'Last Lecture' on historical ecology; typescript notes for lectures 1 and 2 on post-Glacial history of British vegetation.
- B.40 Typescript and manuscript notes on historical ecology.
- B.41 Manuscript notes on climate change in north-west Europe.
- B.42, B.43 Manuscript and typescript notes.
2 folders.
- B.44 Typescript and duplicated lecture notes and notes for practical work for students on Integrated Biology course.

University of Sheffield

- B.45-B.49 'Lecture notes. Sex in plants. Phyllotaxis. Phylogeny'. Contents of Clapham's folder so inscribed divided into five for ease of reference.
- B.45 Manuscript and typescript notes on angiosperms.
- B.46 Manuscript notes for Special Honours lectures on phyllotaxis; manuscript and typescript notes on phyllotaxis.
- B.47 Manuscript notes on 'Evolution of Sex in Flowering Plants', 12pp and 'Darwin's Results with Primulas', 9pp.
- B.48, B.49 Miscellaneous manuscript and typescript notes.
2 folders.
- B.50-B.60 'Statistics Lectures'. Contents of Clapham's folder divided into eleven for ease of reference.

The material is from two courses: Statistics, and Design and Analysis of Experiments.
- B.50-B.55 Statistics.
- B.50 Manuscript course outline; manuscript lecture notes
- B.51 Typescript lecture notes.
- B.52 Duplicated typescript and manuscript notes for Statistics practicals.
- B.53 Manuscript and typescript notes on Analysis of Variance.
- B.54, B.55 Miscellaneous manuscript and typescript notes on Statistics.
2 folders.

University of Sheffield

- B.56-B.59            Design and Analysis of experiments.
- B.56                 Typescript notes for lectures 1-3.
- B.57                 Duplicated typescript sheet for practical work; manuscript and typescript notes for course.
- B.58, B.59            Miscellaneous manuscript, duplicated typescript and typescript notes on design and analysis of experiments.
- 2 folders.
- B.60                 Duplicated typescript sheets on aspects of statistics by M.D. Mountford, 1960.
- B.61-B.64            'Lectures notes. Variability Evolution'. Contents of Clapham's folder so inscribed divided into four for ease of reference:
- B.61                 Manuscript notes for lectures 2, 3, 6, 7 and 9.
- B.62                 Duplicated typescript sheets for practical work.
- B.63, B.64            Miscellaneous manuscript and typescript notes.
- 2 folders.
- B.65, B.66            'Vegetation. Sheffield lecture notes. Notes on papers'. Contents of Clapham's envelope so inscribed divided into two for ease of reference.
- See also B.15.
- B.65                 Duplicated typescript 'Introduction to the geology and vegetation of the Sheffield area' for 1st year students; sheet for practical work for students on Non-integrated Biology class'; 'The Padley Wood Nature Trail', 3pp typescript.

University of Sheffield

- B.66                      Miscellaneous manuscript and typescript notes.
- B.67-B.72                'Water Relations Notes'. Contents of Clapham's envelope so inscribed divided into six for ease of reference.
- B.67                      Manuscript and typescript course outlines; duplicated typescript and typescript lecture notes for intermediate lectures 2-4, 9 and 12.
- B.68-B.72                Miscellaneous manuscript and typescript notes re water relations of plant cells and of whole plants.
- 5 folders.
- B.73                      'Special Honours Lectures: Autumn Term, 1955'
- Manuscript draft reporting on work on Ipomaea caerulea.

SECTION C

RESEARCH

C.1-C.78

The material is notes and notebooks dating from post-graduate research at Cambridge in the mid-1920s to post-retirement work in the early 1970s. A number of the later notebooks were used as much as diaries of visits as to record botanical notes, such lists of plant species.

Research material may also be found with University of Sheffield lecture notes (section B) with which some of it was kept and in the Publications and lectures section, including work on German forests undertaken during and after the Second World War.

- C.1 'I The effect of a period of illumination on the respiration of green leaves. II Observations on starch formation in green leaves'.

53 pp typescript + references.

This was the result of research work under the supervision of F.F. Blackman, ca 1925-1928.
- C.2 'Sampling of Agricultural crops'.

Bound copy of Clapham's Ph.D. thesis.

The thesis reports research work carried out at Rothamsted Agricultural Experimental Station, Harpenden, in 1928. Clapham was awarded his Ph.D. in 1929.
- C.3 Exercise book inscribed 'A.R. Clapham Lime Trees 1928-' on front cover. Used September 1928-May 1930.
- C.4 Exercise book inscribed 'A.R. Clapham Competition among Grass spp'. Used 1929.
- C.5 Exercise book inscribed 'A.R. Clapham Grass Samples May 26 [19]30' on front cover.

Intercalated material includes letter from Clapham to Parkinson of the Rothamsted Agricultural Experimental Station re wheat experiment, 11 November 1930.

Research

- C.6 Exercise book inscribed 'A.R. Clapham Grass Samples 30.vi.30' on front cover. Used June-July 1930.
- C.7 Exercise book inscribed 'A.R. Clapham 3rd Sampling July 22nd [1930]' on front cover.
- C.8 Exercise book inscribed '4th Sampling Aug 5th [1930]' on front cover.
- C.9 Spiral bound notebook inscribed on front cover 'Cothill [Oxfordshire] 1936'.
- C.10 Pocket notebook used for notes on species found at Wembury, April 1937. Most pages not used.
- C.11 Pocket notebook used for notes on 'Excursion with A.G. Tansley to Scotland [...] (in connection with material for The British Islands & their Vegetation)', September 1937.
- C.12 Spiral bound Reporters notebook inscribed 'Corsica 1939' on front cover. Used for notes from visit to Corsica organised by T.G.B. Osborn.
- C.13-C.23 'Forest Data 1940'. Contents of Clapham's folder so inscribed divided into eleven for ease of reference. Miscellaneous research material 1940-1952.
- C.13-C.15 Manuscript and typescript notes on woodland, July-September 1940.
Includes botanical notes on a number of different woods.
- C.13 July.
Highclere (Hampshire), Inkpen (Berkshire), Burghfield Common (Berkshire), Yattendon (Berkshire), Ibstone (Buckinghamshire), Stonor (Oxfordshire).
- C.14 August.
Linch Road Wood (Midhurst, Sussex), Chartridge Wood (Buckinghamshire), Widmore Wood (?Kent), Bix (Oxfordshire).

Research

- C.15                      September, nd.

Medmenham (Berkshire), Swyncombe Down, Ewelme (Oxfordshire),
Westleton Heath (Suffolk), Nanfair Wood, Easthampstead (Berkshire).

Also includes letter to Clapham from A. ?Foggie re research, n.d.
- C.16-C.21                Papers principally re Glen Affric survey, July-September 1947.

In July 1947 Clapham joined this Botanical and Exchange Club of the British Isles survey to look at possible consequences of the project of the North of Scotland Hydro-Electric Board to build dams raising the water levels of lochs
Mullardoch and Beinn a Mheadhoin in Glen Affric, Invernesshire.

Found with this material were a few papers relating to work in Teesdale.
- C.16                      Background material. Includes letter from Ursula Duncan to Clapham re his account of the Glen Affric survey, 27 July 1962.
- C.17, C.18                General notes re survey.

2 folders.
- C.19                      Typescript notes on Loch Mullardoch.
- C.20                      Manuscript notes on Loch Beinn a Mheadhoin.
- C.21                      Manuscript and typescript notes on Widdy Bank Fell, Teesdale, Durham.
- C.22                      Typescript report on 'Landslides in Glen Quoich, July 1949'.

Includes typescript notes and remarks on Clapham's report by C. Williams, sent to Clapham, 23 May 1950.
- C.23                      Duplicated typescript material re Kinderscout, 1952.

Research

- C.24-C.27 'ARC. Mostly Oxford notes, from literature, class excursions, early statistical work'. Contents of Clapham's folder so inscribed divided into four for ease of reference. Manuscript and typescript notes.
- Although very little material is dated it seems to cover a wide time-span.
- C.24 Notes on angiosperms.
- Includes notes for lectures at Sheffield.
- C.25 Notes on xylem specialisation, plants on sand dunes and chalk grasslands.
- C.26, C.27 Miscellaneous manuscript and typescript notes.
- 2 folders.
- C.28 Hardback pocket notebook used chiefly for notes on visit to Scotland, May-July 1949.
- C.29 Pocket notebook labelled on front cover 'Sweden 1950' and 'Ireland October 1955'.
- See also A.31, H.2.
- C.30 Notebook (lacking covers) titled 'IPE Sweden 1950'. Used from July - August 1950. At the back is a list of photographs.
- The notebook includes some 'diary' entries giving a fuller picture of Clapham's activities.
- See also A.31, H.2.
- C.31 Pocket jotter used from the front and from the back for notes on visit to western Aberdeenshire, Scotland, July 1951.
- See also A.32.
- C.32 Pocket notebook used on visit to Denmark August 1953.

Research

- C.33                      Spiral bound pocket notebook inscribed 'Barnack Pen-y- Wales' on front cover. Used for notes June-August 1954 on various sites including Barnack quarries, Cambridgeshire, Lincoln golf course, Pen-y-Ghent, North Yorkshire and sites in north-west Wales.
- C.34                      Pocket notebook used chiefly for notes on visit to ?Derbyshire June 1954, with later note November 1955.
- C.35                      Pocket notebook used for notes on visit to Bristol area, August 1954.

Loose pages at front.
- C.36, C.37                'Squirrels'. Contents of Clapham's folder so inscribed divided into two for ease of reference: correspondence re distribution of Red and Grey Squirrels, 1955.

In November 1955 Clapham appealed, through the Sheffield Telegraph and other local papers for information on Red and Grey Squirrels in the Sheffield area. He received a number of replies indicating a population of Red Squirrels in the area.

2 folders.
- C.38                      Pocket notebook used for notes on the literature and on field trip to area south of Sheffield, September 1956.

SECTION D                      NATURE CONSERVANCY

D.1-D.75

The Nature Conservancy was established in 1949 as the fourth research council. In addition to its own research programmes and research stations the Nature Conservancy owned and managed the national Nature Reserves, over which it had statutory powers. Clapham joined the Conservancy in 1956 and served for many years. He was Chairman of the Scientific Policy Committee for seven years, 1963-1970 succeeding W.H. Pearsall, and of the Committee for England from 1961.

The papers cover the period 1957 to 1974. There is some general policy material, 1959-1971, including papers relating to the relationship between the Nature Conservancy and the Natural Environment Research Council, but the bulk of the material is Scientific Policy Committee papers including papers for particular meetings and papers on particular topics kept together by Clapham. The best represented of these topics is woodland research. There is also significant material relating to Upper Teesdale, Durham. Clapham had been Chairman of the Conservancy's Teesdale Research Panel but in 1967, following the flooding of a section of the valley for a reservoir, the Teesdale Research Trust was established to oversee research into the flora and fauna of the remaining area. Clapham was the Chairman of the Trust's Scientific Committee.

Nature Conservancy

D.1-D.16	GENERAL POLICY	1959-1971
D.1	'Education for Conservation. Report to the Nature Conservancy' by E.M. Nicholson, 21pp duplicated typescript, May and June 1959.
D.2	'The Nature Conservancy', 12pp duplicated typescript draft of booklet, ca 1962.
D.3	Press Release on creation of Lindisfarne National Nature Reserve, 12 September 1964.
D.4	Copy of letter from P.H. Cooper re relationship of the Nature Conservancy to the newly established Natural Environment Research Council, 7 December 1964.
D.5	'Memorandum to Natural Environment Research Council' on policies of the Nature Conservancy, 8pp duplicated typescript, ca 1964.
D.6	'Conservation and research policy in the Nature Conservancy' by E.A.G. Duffey, 9pp duplicated typescript + 5pp duplicated typescript appendix, February 1965.
D.7	'The organisation of ecological research and conservation studies in the Nature Conservancy' by E.A.G. Duffey, 5pp photocopied typescript, 31 May 1965.
D.8	'The Nature Conservancy Research Policy. A Historical Summary', 7pp duplicated typescript + chart. ca 1965.  Refers to Clapham's 1965 recommendation that the Conservancy re-orientate its research programme to the study of management of vegetation and animal communities for conservation purposes and discontinue research unrelated to this.
D.9	Duplicated typescript papers re Nature Conservancy contributions to the Natural Environment Research Council (NERC)'s 'Forward Looks', 1967.

Nature Conservancy

- D.10 'Geomorphology (Physiography) in the Nature Conservancy', 4pp typescript + covering Office Note annotated by Clapham, November 1967.
- D.11 Duplicated typescript papers re revision of NERC Committee structure, 1970-1971.
- The Nature Conservancy was unhappy with the NERC's plans as it was felt it would downgrade the status of the Conservancy. It was argued that it would be preferable for the Nature Conservancy to revert to its former independent status.
- D.12 Typescript memorandum from members of the Nature Conservancy, arguing for renewed independence of the Conservancy from the NERC, February 1971; copy of response from M.H. Thatcher MP, Secretary of State for Education and Science, 23 March 1971.
- The memorandum is annotated by Clapham but he is not a signatory to it.
- D.13 Agenda and papers for special meeting of Nature Conservancy, 27 July 1971.
- This meeting was called to consider the status of the Conservancy within the NERC.
- D.14, D.15 Agenda and papers for ordinary meeting of the Nature Conservancy, 28 July 1971.
- 2 folders.
- D.16 'Index of declarations and negotiations regarding National, Local and Forest Nature Reserves, SSSI(A)s [Site of Special Scientific Interest] and Wildfowl Refuges', 21pp duplicated typescript, 1971.

Nature Conservancy

D.17-D.50                      SCIENTIFIC POLICY COMMITTEE                      1958-1970

Following Clapham's own arrangement the material has been organised by topic as follows:

D.17-D.30	General policy
D.31-D.35	Barrages, estuaries and fens
D.36, D.37	Chalk Grasslands
D.38-D.40	Deer
D.41	Wildfowl
D.42-D.50	Woodlands

D.17-D.30                      General policy                      1958-1968

Chiefly duplicated typescript papers for circulation among Committee members and for discussion at Committee meetings.

D.17                      'The Conservancy's Research Policy. Memorandum from Sub-Committee appointed by Scientific Policy Committee' by C. Diver, 9pp, September 1958; 'Background of the Nature Conservancy's Research Policy. Note by the Director-General', 3pp, October 1958.

D.18                      'Interim Report No. 3', March 1949, with covering Office Note.

D.19                      'Review of Scientific Policy. Memorandum by the Chairman of the Committee' (W.H. Pearsall), 4pp + 1p annex, June 1960; 'The Conservancy's Scientific Policy. Memorandum by the Chairman of the Committee', 6pp, September 1960 + appendix and annex.

D.20                      'The Conservancy's Scientific Policy. Memorandum by the Chairman of the Committee', 6pp, September 1960 + covering Office Note.

This is a revised version of that at D.19 above.

D.21                      Miscellaneous Committee papers, 1962, 1964.

D.56-D.72                      TEESDALE                      1957-1974

In 1956 the Tees Valley Water Board proposed to build a reservoir in Upper Teesdale, initially at Cow Green, then Dine Holm. The Nature Conservancy opposed the plan and it was dropped in favour of a site at Balderhead.

The Nature Conservancy then established a National Nature Reserve in the Upper Teesdale area. In 1964 the Tees Valley and Cleveland Water Board once again raised the question of building a reservoir and planned to site it at Cow Green, now judged geologically suitable. The Nature Conservancy agreed to concede the upper Cow Green site in order to protect the more sensitive Widdybank Fell (lower Cow Green).

Clapham was Chair of the Conservancy's Teesdale Research Panel, and this was re-activated in 1967. The NERC and ICI (main industrial users of the water) created the Teesdale Research Trust to support scientific research in Upper Teesdale and Clapham became Chairman of the Trust's Scientific Committee which replaced the Research Panel.

The research overseen by the Committee resulted in the publication of Upper Teesdale, the area and its natural history (Collins, London, 1978) edited by Clapham. See F.42-F.62.

SECTION E

INTERNATIONAL BIOLOGICAL PROGRAMME

E.1-E.67

The International Biological Programme was established in 1964 by the International Union of Biological Sciences. It was inspired by the success of the International Geophysical Year in 1957-1958 but took three years from the preliminary meetings to agree on an agenda for the Programme. Its full title was the 'International Biological Programme. The Biological Basis of Productivity and Human Welfare' but this longer title was seldom used.

The IBP comprised seven sections: Productivity of Terrestrial Communities, Production Processes, Conservation of Terrestrial Communities, Productivity of Freshwater Communities, Productivity of Marine Communities, Human Adaptability and Use and Management of Biological Resources.

The British National Committee for the IBP was chaired by Clapham (succeeding A.A. Miles in December 1964) and he was also a Member of its Productivity of Terrestrial Communities Subcommittee. He maintained an active interest in British research conducted for the IBP and participated in its African Savannah project.

Clapham believed the chief achievements of the IBP were encouraging research by teams rather than individuals, so transforming the scientific method in biology, and increasing direct scientific knowledge of the total functioning of ecosystems and of humankind's ability to adapt to a wide variety of environments.

SECTION F

PUBLICATIONS AND LECTURES

F.1-F.117

Publications material covers the period 1944-1982 and includes documentation of Clapham's major books Flora of the British Isles (with T.G. Tutin and E.F. Warburg), The Oxford Book of Trees (with B.E. Nicholson), and Upper Teesdale, the area and its natural history. There are also papers and correspondence assembled by Clapham in the course of writing his Royal Society Biographical Memoirs of G.R.S. Snow, W.H. Pearsall, W.O. James and E.J. Salisbury. The material relating to Salisbury includes a short sequence of Salisbury's own correspondence spanning his career. Public and invitation lectures are not well documented. The most significant material is for lectures on 'The shapes of trees' and 'Common plants'.

The references in the form Bibliog. no. ... refer to the list of Clapham's publications in the Memoir of Clapham by A. J. Willis, Biographical Memoirs of Fellows of the Royal Society vol 39 (1994). Clapham's books were listed separately in the list of publications and are not given numbers.

Publications and lectures

- F.42-F.62            Upper Teesdale, the area and its natural history (Collins, London, 1978).
This book was edited by Clapham.
Clapham had a long-standing interest in the natural history of Upper Teesdale. He served on the Nature Conservancy's Teesdale Research Panel and later on the Teesdale Research Trust's Scientific Committee (see D.56-D.72). The book was the result of research carried out in Upper Teesdale supported by the Teesdale Research Trust.
The material includes notes and drafts long predating the publication of Upper Teesdale but which seem to have been used in the preparation of the book.
- F.42-F.47            Typescript and manuscript notes and pages of drafts.
- F.42                 'The Flora of Upper Teesdale'.
- F.43                 'Upper Teesdale as a Plant Refuge'.
- F.44                 'Teesdale, and Second Thoughts on Periglacial Survival'.
- F.45                 'The Teesdale Assemblage'.
- F.46                 Miscellaneous botanical notes on Teesdale.
- F.47                 Miscellaneous botanical notes.
- F.48                 Correspondence re publication 1975-1978.
- F.49                 Drafts of notes for proposed book and invitation to contributors; Clapham's manuscript notes on progress with the book.
- F.50                 Typescript lists of plates and figures.

Publications and lectures

- F.51-F.62                      Photographs of Teesdale and its flora and fauna.
- These photographs, most of which were not used in the book, form a number of sets. These have been distinguished by the format of the photographs themselves and by numbers on verso.
- Some of the photographs are inscribed on verso or otherwise prepared for publication.
